THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

Community Service

JUNIATA'S initial attempt with its community educational services program in January was labeled "very successful" by college administrators. A total of 119 course registrations was obtained in seven courses conducted under the new program.

Organized under the direction of Dean Morley Mays '32, this program marks another co-operative undertaking between the college and the community. The formation of the adult education program was announced in December after preliminary studies of community needs and meetings with representatives in various phases of community activities.

Six short-term courses with 102 registrations began January 7 and carried for six weeks. In addition, 17 were signed up for a 15-week course in elementary accounting at the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. plant in Huntingdon.

The courses and instructors: Business English, John W. Swigart '30; Foreign Language Review, Dr. George B. Clemens '36; Home Decoration, Gertrude L. Butler '31; Parliamentary Procedure, Dr. T. F. Henry '26; Personal Finance, Dr. S. Lees Booth; Public Speaking, Miss Esther M. Doyle. All except Mr. Swigart are members of the college faculty.

No college credit is given for the courses and a small fee of $7.50 per course was charged to cover operating costs.

Both President Ellis and Dean Mays were well pleased with the undertaking. Adult education, according to President Ellis, is "one of the best contributions that a church-related college can make to its community."

Working With Industry

THE COLLEGE is cooperating with Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. by conducting a 15-week, non-credit course in elementary accounting for company employees at the Huntingdon plant. Twenty-one men and women signed up for the course which began January 8 as part of the Fiberglas plant-training program. Herbert A. Miller, assistant professor of economics, is the instructor.

The course is part of the College's attempt to provide an educational program to fit the needs and interests of companies and individuals in the Huntingdon area.

Naughty Marietta

AN ENTHUSIASTIC Parents' Day weekend (Nov. 10) audience joined the critics in acclaiming the all-college production of "Naughty Marietta" as the best student entertainment on the campus in recent years.

Joy E. Truxal '54, Greensburg, carried off the lead role with vivacity and charm. One reviewer stated:

"The brilliance and exuberance of her singing will long be remembered. . . ." The male lead, Clyde J. Johnson '52, Somerset, also gave a commendable performance in spite of a threatening cold.

No student in recent years came closer to "stealing the show" than Helen A. Rosengren '54, Philadelphia, who along with her co-comic Robert Flory '54, Waynesboro, just about had the audience rolling in the aisle with laughter. Miss Rosengren was terrific!

Homecoming Queen

CONNIE SHERMAN '52, Ebensburg, elementary education major, reigned as queen over the annual Homecoming Day activities on Saturday, Nov. 3. At the coronation ceremony during half-time of the Juniata-Susquehannagame, Lois Miller '52, last year's queen, passed the royal crown to her successor. Miss Sherman then accepted on behalf of the student body a key to the new Memorial Physical Education Building from Henry B. Gibbel '26, chairman of the board of trustees.

SHERMAN '52

The Homecoming queen is chairman of women's house committee on Student Senate and has been a cheerleader for four years. In addition, she is active in at least four campus clubs and associations.

Tops in Talent

ALUMNI joined with students and faculty to provide tops in talent for the Homecoming Day crowd at a variety program in Oller Hall Saturday night, Nov. 3. Last year's varsity quartet featured the program.

Miss Marion Thomas, talented instructor in piano, played three selections of Brahms and Chopin. Phyllis Link '53 and Janet Boland '52, active members of the Masque, presented a skit "See You Homecoming." Rounding out the program were top tunes from "Naughty Marietta."

Virus X Again!

A"MILD FORM" of the virus-X illness which swept the campus in January 1948 developed among students in January again — four years later. "Nearly 60" men and women were reported ill during the week of January 7, but the illness did not reach epidemic proportions. More than 90 were stricken in the 1948 outbreak.

All of the students had similar "intestinal disorders," the college infirmary reported. Physicians who reported to check the situation termed the illness "not serious" and revealed that numerous cases also were reported in town. "Too much vacation" and "pre-exam jitters" were among the theories advanced for the cause of the illness.

Eisenhower Speaks

HUNTINGDON'S three service clubs, Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary, joined for a Ladies Night program in the college dining hall on Oct 31 to hear Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the Pennsylvania State College. The program, arranged partly by the college, included group singing led by two top members of Penn State's department of music, Professors Hummel Fishburn and Frank Gullo. Generally agreed: the service clubs had presented their ladies with the finest program in many a year.

Korean War Vet Elected

Former Staff Sergeant Robert M. Keim '52, Hollsopple, Pa., was elected chairman of athletics on Student Senate at Juniata College. Keim, a senior, was the first veteran of the Korean war to return to the college for the Fall term.

Christmas Pageant

ONE OF the most impressive features of the pre-Christmas season on College Hill is the Christmas pageant presented annually under the direction of Prof. Donald S. Johnson, chairman of the department of music. The sixth pageant, "The Nativity," was given this year on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 16, by a cast and choir of 60 students.

A candlelight procession by the 26-member chapel choir, organ music, solos, and singing by a choir of faculty children supplemented the pageant. The production staff included Phyllis Link '53, Johnstown, as student director, Mrs. Margaret Johnson, and Professor Johnson.

Artists on Campus

STRAVINSKY is a name that is well-known in the arts. Soulima Stravinsky, son of the eminent composer and a noted pianist in his own right, appeared on the campus in November for a recital and to hold discussions with students. His appearance was made possible under the arts program of the Association of American Colleges.

Another prominent "name" on the campus was Elizabeth Bowen, English novelist, who lectured on her works and those of her contemporaries in Oller Hall in October.

Who's Who?

TEN SENIORS at Juniata have been included in the 1951-52 edition of "Who's Who among Students in American Colleges and Universities." Six women and four men were selected for scholarship, leadership, participation in extracurricular and academic activities, citizenship, and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Eight Get Degrees

EIGHT SENIORS were granted degrees at the College's mid-year commencement exercises in Oller Hall Monday, January 28. President Calvert N. Ellis awarded diplomas to one candidate for the bachelor of arts degree and seven candidates for the bachelor of science degree. Three women and five men are included in the group.

Dr. Millard E. Gladfelter, vice president and provost of Temple University delivered the commencement address. Dr. Gladfelter, one of the outstanding educators in Pennsylvania and the Middle Atlantic States, has been at Temple since 1930.

Church Preference

STUDENTS with a religious preference for Church of the Brethren outnumber others at Juniata College this year.

A total of 120 of the college's enrollment of 563 listed this denomination, according to a statistical summary by the college's public relations office.

Thirty-four different denominations are represented in the survey. Methodists rank second and Presbyterians third in total numbers.

Hill Heads Frosh

Russell A. Hill, 33 High St., Orange, N. J., was elected president of the freshman class. Other officers are: Paul Hepak, Ambridge, Pa., vice-president; Suzanne E. Jamison, North Plainfield, N. J., secretary; Richard M. Ikeda, Seabrook, N. J., treasurer.

First Class Paper

The Juniatian, student newspaper at Juniata College, has retained its rating as a first class small college weekly, according to Associated Collegiate Press. The Juniatian was classed with 41 other papers in the 500-900 enrollment group for the second highest division of excellence.

Ellis Scholars

TWO TOP-RANKING seniors have been named as the first recipients of the Charles C. Ellis Memorial scholarships. Lois E. Miller, Tuckahoe, N. Y., and N. Douglas Martin, Colver, Pa., were selected by the committee on scholarships for

MILLER '52

MARTIN '52

"unusual competence in scholarship and good citizenship" to be the first Ellis scholars.

The scholarships, which carry a monetary value of $250 each, are rated as the top academic awards now available at Juniata. The committee plans to select each year as recipients those students whose academic success places them near the top of the record irrespective of financial aid.

The Ellis scholarships were established last year by the friends and alumni of Juniata College as a memorial to the late Dr. C. C. Ellis.

Both Miss Miller and Martin have been named to the Dean's List of Distinguished Students for their superior academic standing. Miss Miller is a sociology major who was Miss Homecoming in 1950. She has an outstanding extra-curricular record. Martin is a pre-med biology major who is treasurer of the senior class. Both are members of the Juniata Honor Society.

Enrollment Report

THE FRESHMAN class has maintained its superiority in numbers in spite of a 21 per cent cutback from last year's near-record total of incoming students at the College.

An enrollment analysis reveals that the freshman class holds a slight edge on the sophomores, 169 to 167,

Only 3 Percent Drop

Only a three percent drop in the College's spring term enrollment was recorded as registration figures disclosed that 536 students began the spring term.

The current figure compares to 553 at the opening of the fall term in September and represents a net loss of only 17. Hence, the drop was considerably less than at the same time last year when uncertain world conditions resulted in a 7½ percent enrollment loss.

Registration figures show 312 men and 224 women enrolled for the spring term.

in the total enrollment of 563. Both classes outnumber the juniors with 110 and the seniors with only 95.

Once again men retain a 3-2 advantage over the women in numbers with a total of 332 men and 231 women. In the senior class, however, there are only five more men than women—50 to 45.

The college enrollment is composed primarily of resident students. There are 455 compared to only 86 non-resident full-time students. An additional 22, listed as unclassified specials, also are non-resident.

Juniata opened its Fall term in September with an enrollment cutback of 10.5 per cent from last year. Since that time, the total registration figure has jumped from 553 to 563.

$32,000 in Scholarships

Students at Juniata College now receive approximately $32,000 of financial aid per year in the form of scholarships and grants-in-aid.

Around The Campus Today . . .

What's Cooking?

MRS. AVERAGE housewife has had an opportunity to see how to put new life and glamour into the daily routine of three square meals without smashing the kid's piggy-bank for additional funds.

Demonstrations of cooking economy were given for the public free of charge by four home economics students during the Fall term. The emphasis was on economy of procurement and preparation.

Planned by members of the foods demonstration class under the supervision of Miss Helen L. Fisher, the presentations served several purposes — to give the girls a chance to put their home economics knowledge to practical use; to provide the public with timely information in culinary art; to serve as "final exams" for the students in the course.

During the first half of the term, the girls learned how to demonstrate food preparation. They started off with 15-minute displays with the others in the class as an audience; then they developed techniques with gradually longer periods. The public demonstrations were about 1½ hours.

Students who gave the demonstrations were: Ruth E. Armentrout, Harrisonburg, Va.; Jo Ann Barksdale, Chatham, N. J.; Miriam V. Barnes, Hanover, Pa.; and Anne E. Webber, Basking Ridge, N. J.

"Feeling of Belonging"

Hermann Pabst, German student attending Juniata College under Foreign Students Aid Fund, explained that the biggest difference between American and German schools is "the spirit among the students. Here there is a feeling of belonging and lots of fun and social life. But in Germany each student keeps more to himself, living a life in which study is the most important thing."

Working Their Way

TWENTY-TWO per cent of the students at the College are employed in part-time work to help finance their way this year.

A report issued by the Dean of Students revealed that students are working as dining room waitresses, laboratory assistants, library assistants, switchboard operators, janitors, assistants in the athletic department, postmasters, and book store employees.

In addition to part-time employment, the College offers three other types of financial assistance: scholarships, awarded on the basis of academic performance and promise of potential usefulness; grants-in-aid, and loans.

Approved In 1928

Juniata's home economics department was the first among liberal arts colleges in Pennsylvania to receive approval by the State Department of Public Instruction for training teachers of vocational home economics. It was approved in 1928.

Varied Jobs Available

Graduates of Juniata's department of home economics have entered a variety of types of jobs including teaching, county extension work, commercial demonstration, institutional management, dietetics, buying, and homemaking.

From All Corners

FOUR foreign countries, 11 states and the District of Columbia are represented, but Pennsylvania dominates 78 per cent of Juniata College's full-time fall term enrollment of 541.

A geographical distribution report from the office of the registrar showed an out-of-state enrollment of 22 per cent, slightly higher than the nation-wide migration of college students from their home state. One student each from West Africa, Brazil, Germany and Panama comprise the foreign student contingent.

(Editor's Note: A total of 13 students are listed by the public relations office as "international students." Nine of them now claim an address in the United States, but vary in background from Russia and Yugoslavia to Puerto Rico and Japan.)

Sixty per cent of the 121 out-of-state students come from New Jersey. Maryland ranks next with 18 students and New York third with 14. Other areas represented are Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Central Pennsylvania counties continue to send the highest number of students to Juniata with Huntingdon and Blair counties ranking one-two among the 47 counties represented. The top ten counties in the distribution report are: Huntingdon 72, Blair 51, Cambria 28, Mifflin 23, Allegheny 21, Bedford 20, Montgomery 20, Westmoreland 19, Philadelphia 13, Chester 12.

Choir in 20th Season

THE Juniata College Choir, recognized as an outstanding mixed voice group, is preparing for its twentieth annual season of public concerts in churches and schools. Prof. Donald S. Johnson, choir director since the retirement of Prof. Charles L. Rowland in June, has chosen 26 members for this year's choir.

This year, the program will be augmented by a small instrumental ensemble which will accompany the choir in several numbers. Members of the ensemble include Janet Binkley, Huntingdon, Pa., viola; Rhoda Clemmer, Souderton, Pa., clarinet; Margery Funk, Somerset, Pa., cello; Hermann Pabst, Germany, violin; Judith Shanabrook, Hanover, Pa., flute; Miriam Smith, McAlisterville, Pa., organ; Kay Wright, Johnstown, Pa., violin.

Approximately 25 concerts will be presented this season, highlighted by a Spring concert tour of eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Officers of the 1951-52 College Choir are: Clyde J. Johnson, Somerset, Pa., president; Wesley Diemer, Royersford, Pa., business manager; Josephine Chiodi, Hot Springs, Va., assistant manager; Rhoda Clemmer, Souderton, Pa., secretary; Harold L. Bowser, New Enterprise, Pa., treasurer; Helen Rosengren, Philadelphia, publicity chairman.

Miss Lillian M. Evans—Raconteur of Juniata Memories—To Retire in June

NO PERSON at Juniata College has taken more of an active interest in promoting the work of the College Library than its own Librarian for the past 33 years — Lillian May Evans.

As custodian of knowledge, the greatest inheritance given to the students of Juniata, Miss Evans has attained a place of esteem which will not be canceled by her retirement from the faculty in June.

Her interest in Juniata does not stop with library work. She has been active in alumni organization and club work in Huntingdon. A collector of antiques of furniture and glassware, national traveler and European visitor, lover of art, Miss Evans has gained an interest in varied activities.

Unquestionably, her interest will not diminish but probably will be increased in these activities when she steps out from behind the main desk at the library.

A native of Huntingdon, Miss Evans has degrees from Juniata and Drexel Institute with graduate study at the University of Chicago. During World War II she served as librarian at both Navy and Army bases.

Prior to accepting her position as librarian at Juniata College in 1919, Miss Evans was branch librarian at Wilmington Free Library, Wilmington, Del., and library assistant at the University of Chicago. During her many years of service at Juniata, she has received gifts for the library from all ends of the globe as organizer and promoter of the Friends of the Library.

MISS LILLIAN M. EVANS '10
Custodian of Knowledge

Next to doing library work, Miss Evans lists "collecting antiques" as her hobby. She enjoys travel, too. But the most fitting tribute to her was made in a citation during the 75th anniversary observance last year when Miss Evans was acclaimed as "chief raconteur of Juniata memories."

Honor System Proposed

An honor system at Juniata is being considered by a special committee of the Student Senate. The group feels that the formation of an educational, promotional committee is essential if the project is to be carried on and the system initiated.

On Approved List

Juniata is one of two protestant church-related coeducational colleges in Pennsylvania on the State Department of Public Instruction's approved list for training teachers of vocational home economics.

Good Choice!

IF JUNIATA COLLEGE representatives boast that they like being a small college, they may have just cause.

A survey of this year's freshman class of 169 reveals that the number one reason for selecting Juniata is because "it is a small college."

Rating a close second, according to the college's alumni office, is "the scholastic reputation of the college."

Alumni Achievement

SCIENCE IN REVIEW in the October 21 issue of The New York Times hailed the experimenters with algae as "being on the track of a new source of food, fats and oil."

Among the experimenters singled out for special recognition was Dr. Jack E. Myers '34, professor of zoology at the University of Texas and one of the grantees of Carnegie Institution. According to the Times' science editor, the Institution is doing something to solve the problem of diminishing food supply.

Algae are described as nutritious, prolific and simple plants that grow on the surfaces of ponds and lakes and in the sea as seaweed. Dr. Myers explains that "the mass culture of algae as a source of food or of special organic materials, such as sterols, drying oils, or protein, has received considerable recent popular attention."

The chorella species of algae is the one that has been selected for propagation by Carnegie Institution grantees. Waldemar Kaemffert, of the New York Times, writes as follows:

"Dr. Jack E. Myers, one of the Carnegie grantees, grows chorella in a water solution in a quarter-inch space between two glass tubes, one inside the other. The outside tube is three inches in diameter and approximately three feet high. Carbon dioxide gas—the kind with which beer and ginger ale are charged — passes through the solution, and this, with sunlight and some essential minerals, brings about extraordinary growth.

"Though he is producing half a pound of algae per gallon of water, Dr. Myers sees no bright financial future for chorella soup or hash, yet he believes chorella may be profitably cultivated as a source of drying oils and of fats.

"Two problems have always vexed experimental algae growers. One is the high concentration of plant in thin layers; the other the controlled introduction of needed minerals. The algae must have iron, for example, but the addition of too much at a time poisons. Dr. Myers overcomes this difficulty with the aid of versene, a chemical used in kitchen soap to produce suds in hard water. Versene acts as an automatic control station by allowing only a minute amount of minerals to participate in the growth of algae."

To this, Dr. Myers has added a word for the Alumni Bulletin; "Our actual work on this is directed only toward the theoretical or biological problems which need to be solved in order to make any industrial attempts actually feasible."

Dr. Myers received a bachelor of science in chemistry from Juniata in 1934. He then obtained a master of science degree from Montana State College in 1935 and his Phd. from University of Minnesota in 1939.

As an undergraduate, he was editor of the Alfarata, vice-president of the Class of 1934 and captain of track. He held the college one-mile record until broken by Joe Beyer in 1949. Dr. Myers is married to Evelyn De Turck '34 and they have four daughters. They live at 1505 Northwood Rd., Austin, Texas.

TWO GIANT mechanical brains in the Ballistic Research laboratory at Aberdeen Proving Ground compute complicated mathematical problems day or night for Mrs. Minerva Black Masincup '35 of Aberdeen, Md.

Mrs. Masincup, mathematical technician, has been at the Proving Ground since 1939. For the past four years she has worked in Ballistic Research and is presently chief of the Bell Relay Computer branch.

Her job is computing difficult firing tables for ground and air-launched projectiles, according to the Observer section of the Harford Democrat (Oct. 12, 1951). She invariably arrives at the right answers with the help of the machines—Bell Relay Computers, designed and built by Bell Telephone at a cost of $250,000.

The machines are a high school algebra student's dream—and maybe college, too. They are completely self-checking and if there is an error in the answer, there was a mistake in setting up the problem. The machines never make a mistake.

Not only that, the machines print the answers in final form on paper that can be reproduced in as many copies as desired without typing and proof-reading. What's more, the machines will run unattended.

FOOD MARKETING News is the key to information coming from the office of Joseph S. Shelly '36. His work consists of collecting timely information about food and disseminating it through the weekly release, radio and personal appearance.

Shelly is working for Food Marketing Information Service, a project under the supervision of the Agricultural Extension Services of West Virginia University, Ohio State University, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The area covered is five counties.

Shelly completed a year in residence at University of Illinois working on his doctor's degree. He and his family now live at 134 Maple Drive, Woodsdale, Wheeling, W. Va.

WOODROW W. MIDDLEKAUFF '35
Few Dull Moments

"HILL THOUGHTS" is a literary anthology for Hanover College. But thanks to Dr. Leland Miles '46, a touch of Juniata College has been included in a recent issue.

Dr. Miles, chairman of the department of English at Hanover, submitted a poem "about two Juniataans, written in June 1946, when Ginny (his wife, Virginia Geyer '46) was graduating and I still had a few months more to go." It is entitled: "To Virginia: Reflections on Graduating."

Scattered references to Juniata are found in the poem. For example:

"Your days of racing to and fro are gone
From library, social rooms, and theater hall."

In the opening two lines, Dr. Miles refers to the Juniata library, social rooms in Founders and Oller Hall. In addition, descriptions of scenery are familiar to all who have roamed around Huntingdon. "The glassy frozen pond" is only about two blocks from the campus. The "hill" referred to in the closing lines is Roundtop.

Dr. Miles also has written an article for the Hanover Alumni News recently entitled: "What Happens to English Graduates?" He has served as temporary rector of Christ Church in Madison, Ind.; preached in Baltimore, Md., this summer, and worked as assistant director of Maryland Camp for Crippled Children.

THERE cannot be many dull moments in the life of Woodrow W. Middlekauff '35. When he isn't busy with research in insect control, he probably is tied up as faculty representative on a Student Executive Committee at the University of California.

The latter is a new assignment this year for Middlekauff and he finds himself as a contact man between faculty and students. Unless you have served as a faculty representative on such a committee, you probably cannot fully appreciate the hectic problems involved.

Middlekauff, associate professor of entomology, joined the staff of the University of California College of Agriculture January 1, 1946. He has been specializing in insect control of truck and field crops, especially tomatoes. His publications on this subject have been extensive.

Born in Hagerstown in 1913, Middlekauff received his bachelor's degree from Juniata in 1935. He was granted a master's degree in 1936 and a doctorate in 1941 from Cornell University. In 1941 and early 1942 he was instructor in entomology at Cornell.

During World War II, Middlekauff served as captain in the Army with the Fourth Service Command. For two years he taught mosquito control to Army malaria control teams. He did the same type of work in Panama during the latter part of the war.

Middlekauff married Phyllis Buckman '35 in 1938. They have two sons and live in Berkley, Calif.

HUNTINGDON county's office of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance changed hands in December — from one Juniata graduate to another. Miss Elizabeth M. Rodgers '35 succeeded John P. Steiner '37 as executive director.

Miss Rodgers, who has served as county supervisor under Steiner, started her career with the Mother's Assistance Board of Huntingdon County in February, 1937. When the Department of Public Assistance was formed in July, 1937, she became a junior visitor. Hence, she has served continuously with the DPA since its organization in Huntingdon.

Later Miss Rodgers served as visitor, assistant supervisor and county supervisor, prior to her promotion to succeed Steiner.

Steiner resigned, effective December 15, after 11 years as executive director. He accepted a position as district sales manager for Prismo Safety Corp. in Huntingdon.

He had been associated with the DPA since November, 1937, when he accepted a position as junior visitor. He later served as assistant supervisor. On Dec. 1, 1940, he was promoted to the post of executive director.

ONE JUNIATA alumnus, Philip A. J. Strittmatter, '49 Montoursville, Pa., was among 17 Pennsylvanians awarded fellowships sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies announced in December that fellowships were granted to 343 in the program which "is giving many of our promising young scientists the opportunity to continue their research and study... we do not need to go into the future to see the need for more scientists — the need is here now."

STRITTMATTER

Strittmatter is continuing study at Harvard University in biological chemistry after graduating from Juniata magna cum laude. He was an outstanding scholar at the college. He was selected for the Honor Society as a junior and had been named to the Dean's List of Distinguished Students.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius F. Strittmatter III of Montoursville, Pa. A brother, Cornelius, was graduated in 1947 and held a fellowship at Havard.

NEW REUNION PLAN
Alumni Day, 1952

OPENING NIGHT ACTION in Memorial Gym produced some racehorse basketball and some excellent photographic poses for Photographer Erwin Koval of The Daily News. Bucknell topped the Indians 65-50 in this first game on the new court, but here's evidence that Juniata was in the thick of the tangle. At left: Ed Feldkircher, (No. 35) sophomore center, has the rebound. Center: It's jump ball for sure with all hands ready. Bucknell's man is struggling with Capt. Tommy Green for possession while Leo Kuhn (No. 28) is ready to grab. The other three white jerseys (Juniata) are partly shown—John Cook (behind the jumpers); Dave Pollock (No. 21 in background); Ed Feldkircher (behind Kuhn). At right: Freshman sharpshooter Dave Pollock (No. 21) finds himself in an awkward guarding spot and does a fancy twist. Other Tribemen are Jack Dickey (No. 22) and Fran Zimmerman (No. 30).

The Juniata Sports Parade

On New Court

COACH Arnold Greene promised "good, crowd-pleasing basketball" for Juniata College's 1951-52 season before it began in Williamsport Dec. 1, when the Indians opposed Lycoming College.

"Not much more than last season" was the way Greene viewed the prospects, but he emphasized that "Juniata will put on the floor a well-conditioned team with an organized attack" to go with the new court in Memorial Physical Education Building.

Four lettermen and one freshman cinched starting assignments in the Juniata lineup. Heading the quintet was Tom Green, senior from Burlington, N. J., who has been elected captain for the year. Green ranked as second high scorer and was the team's best foul-shot artist with 80 per cent made last season.

Pairing with Green at forward was Dave Pollock, a dead shot freshman from Berwick, Pa. Coach Greene hopes that Pollock may be the replacement for Karl Park, the Johnstown sharpshooter who enlisted in the Air Force after establishing a new "average per game" scoring record at Juniata last season.

Three sophomores pressed hard for the other starting roles. They were Ed Feldkircher, Bromall, Pa., at center; John Cook, Greensburg, Pa., and Ed Weirauch, Camden, N. J., at guards. Most frequent replacement is Leo Kuhn, junior from Hollidaysburg, Pa., at guard.

Dave Bayer, Woodbury, N. J., junior and Jack Dickey, Berlin, Pa., senior, are the only two-time letter winners available for action. Dickey cinched a starting role early in the season.

Fran Zimmerman, sophomore holdover from Annville who saw limited duty last year, and three freshmen complete the 11-man squad. Most promising of the newcomers is Pollock. Two other frosh, Herb Law, a 6-3 center from Lilly, Pa., and Jim Boulton, from Burlington, N. J., may work in the Indians' basketball picture before too long.

Bucknell First

Bucknell University was the first opponent for Juniata College's basketball team in the new $300,000 memorial physical education building here on Dec. 5, 1951.

Green Named Captain

Tom Green, senior forward from Burlington, N. J., was elected captain of Juniata College's basketball team for 1951-52. Green ranked as second-high scorer and top foul-shot artist for the Indians last season.

Memorial Gym

"A GREAT DAY for Juniata," was the expression of Henry B. Gibbel '26, chairman of the board of trustees, "as we dedicate another facility in the expansion program of Juniata's development to train young men and women to serve God and their fellowmen."

Chairman Gibbel accepted the keys to the Memorial Physical Education Building from Dale M. Ritter, representing the general contractors—Ritter Brothers, Harrisburg. The historic occasion took place at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, 1951—Homecoming Day.

The building was specifically dedicated to the memory of those sons and daughters of Juniata who served in two World Wars. But Mr. Gibbel pointed out that "we dedicate this building to the generations of Juniata who will find here the physical development and recreational activity which are such an important part of college life."

Both Mr. Gibbel and President Calvert N. Ellis credited the efforts of "many persons" for making possible the new gymnasium. "A college building is more than iron and steel and concrete. It represents the dreams and hopes and sacrificial gifts of a multitude of people," said President Ellis.

DEDICATION DAY for Juniata's new Memorial Physical Education Building was a historic occasion. Below, President Calvert N. Ellis acknowledges the "gifts of a multitude of people" as other speakers sit left to right: The Rev. J. Raymond Powell, Dale M. Ritter, Henry B. Gibbel and the Rev. G. Wayne Glick. At right: Chairman Gibbel accepts the keys to the new structure from Contractor Ritter.

Prayer of Dedication

By J. RAYMOND POWELL

Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, Pa.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, the One in whom we live and move and have our being, we acknowledge that apart from Thee we are nothing, but with Thee we have all things even life that knows no end. In as much as Thou hast revealed Thyself to us in the Lord Jesus Christ, we dare to turn to Thee and seek Thy special blessing upon the efforts of our hands.

We meet in this new building today. It was not built to be a place of worship but it was built to develop good physical bodies. We know Thou are concerned about our bodies for even Jesus increased in stature and He touched men and women and made their bodies whole.

This building was not built as a place to sound forth praise unto Thee but it was built so that our voices may blend together as we join in sports and play. We know Thou dost want us to rejoice and be glad.

So we pray Thy Divine Blessing upon this undertaking. Blessings upon the ones who have made it possible. Blessings upon the ones who teach and direct. Blessings upon the ones who learn and who play here. So may Thy Blessing follow as we this day dedicate this building to the development of body and character. Amen.

President Ellis acknowledged particularly the gifts of the Huntingdon campaign of 1947 and the more recent gifts which "together will pay a considerable part of the cost of this building." The contributions of alumni were received with "sincere gratitude."

More than 1,000 came to the dedication ceremony to see the gymnasium, erected as a memorial to the 675 Juniata men and women who served. With its dedication was launched a new era. Intercollegiate basketball now has the physical facilities to develop freely; the program in physical education can be thoroughly integrated throughout the student body; intramurals and the resultant rise in school spirit will go hand in hand.

Included on the program for the ceremony were the Rev. J. Raymond Powell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, who gave the invocation; the Rev. G. Wayne Glick, assistant professor of Biblical Studies, who presented the dedicatory prayer; and the Juniata College band.

Lundy Leads Again

FORCED to concentrate his offensive maneuvers in the first four games of the season, Lundy Loschiavo copped the team's scoring and offense honors for the second year.

The triple-threat Ambridge, Pa., tailback chalked up eight touchdowns for 48 points in four games before he was eliminated from action by injuries in the Susquehanna game. He was able to return to action in the final game, but the Indians were blanked by powerful Lebanon Valley 34-0.

In total offense, Loschiavo took top honors over Tom McNeal, sophomore fullback from Mifflin, Pa. He accounted for 382 yards by rushing and 317 yards by passing for a total net gain of 699 yards. McNeal's total was 579.

Lighthorse Lundy also dominated the passing attack with 24 completions in 64 attempts for 317 yards.

football team occupied the building when college opened in September, 1951.

There's enough steel, wood, brick and cement in the building to baffle the amateur statistician. . . . Each of the main arches, for example, is constructed with 14 tons of steel. . . . Light-produced by the 48 1,000-watt and 60 300-watt fixtures provides 50-foot candles of illumination on the playing floor—more than required for producing television or motion pictures.

In the tremendous structure—115' x 188'—2,400 persons can be accommodated comfortably. . . . Rolling bleachers, installed on the main floor, will seat 600 on each side. . . . Additional bleachers on the mezzanine level should double the seating capacity.

News Notes From The Hill

Top Men of Clubs

TOWN AND GOWN relations between Huntingdon and Juniata College have taken on added significance this year. Both the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs of Huntingdon are headed by members of the college staff.

Paul R. Yoder, assistant professor of physics, is president of Kiwanis, and Harold B. Brumbaugh, assistant to the president and alumni secretary, heads the Rotary club.

Christmas Cheer

More than 200 feet of acorns and hundreds of pine cones helped to transform the social room in the girls' dormitory at the College into a cheerful spectacle for the Christmas season. Decorations were completed by a committee of sophomores.

Public Relations Article

Harold B. Brumbaugh '33, alumni secretary and assistant to the president at Juniata College, has written a paper entitled "A Public Relations Program for Church Colleges" which was published in the Christian Education Journal.

Coed Edits Alfarata

Dott E. Taylor '53, Sinnemahoning, Pa., is serving as editor of the 1952 Alfarata. She is a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Taylor.

Freshmen In January

Juniata accepted freshmen for its Spring term beginning January 28, 1952, in line with its policy of taking new students three times a year — September, January and June.

President Heads Commission

Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, president of Juniata College, is chairman of the Commission on the Arts of the Association of American Colleges. President Ellis and Dr. Morley Mays, dean of the college, represented Juniata at the annual meeting of the Association Jan. 9-11.

Pre-Dawn Carolling

Pre-dawn carolling by students of Juniata College on Wednesday, Dec. 19, hailed the beginning of the two-week recess for Christmas vacation. Carollers left the campus at 5:30 a.m. to sing at the homes of faculty members and friends of the college.

F & M Dean Speaks

Dr. A. G. Breidenstine, dean of Franklin and Marshall College and one of the state's foremost educators, spoke at a meeting of the Faculty club of the college on Monday, Jan. 14.

Dedicated to Dr. Ellis

A new anthem, composed by the Rev. E. A. Pedrette, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Huntingdon, has been dedicated to President Calvert N. Ellis. The words are from the John Greenleaf Whittier poem, "Dear Lord and Father of All Mankind," a favorite of Dr. Ellis.

Student Manager

Janet S. Boland '52, West Orange, N. J., was student manager for the all-college comic opera at Juniata College Nov. 9-10. She coordinated all committees for the production, "Naughty Marietta."

New Plan for Class Reunions

JUNIATA has adopted a new system, or time schedule, for class reunions in case you haven't heard. It's known as the Dartmouth Plan and is becoming very popular.

Beginning with Alumni Day at Commencement weekend, class reunions will follow the new plan which replaces the traditional and now discarded "every-five-year" or quin-quennial plan.

Meet In Combine

Under the new system, reunions will be arranged to permit classes to reunite two out of three times with two other classes which were graduated in the same "college cycle." Your 5th, 15th, 20th, 30th, 35th, etc. will be with two other classes which were graduated either the year before or the year after your class.

That's a combine of three classes in reunion. Remember that word: combine. You will be hearing more about your reunion combine.

Or Sometimes Alone

The arrangement also gives the class the chance to hold its major reunions — 10th, 25th, 40th, etc. — alone. Your class will not be in a combine for those particular reunion years.

Now here's the schedule for Alumni Day in 1952:

Combine Reunions:

1906-07-08

1931-32-33

Single Reunions:

1887	1922
1892	1927
1897	1942
1902	1947
1912	1951

How Time Does Fly!

ONEIDA HALL GIRLS

Spring 1899

ONEIDA HALL GIRLS of the present generation—similar quality! Seated, left to right: Claudia Ottoson, Canton; Martha R. Petre, Hagerstown, Md.; Elizabeth A. Monks, West Orange, N. J.; Nancy L. Shiffler, Hummelstown. Kneeling: Anna Kathryn Winger, Greencastle; JoAnne M. Siemon, Greensburg; Dorothy A. Gingrich, Lebanon; Elizabeth M. Brandt, Lebanon; Carol M. Shoemaker, Ambler. Standing: Barbara M. Snively, Waynesboro; Joanne M. Pentz, Pottstown; Rhoda S. Clemmer, Souderton; Janet M. Carper, North Canton, O.; Janet Wiltshire, Moorestown, N. J.; Mrs. Anna Groninger Smith, executive secretary at Juniata College; Virginia N. Yohn, Westminster, Md.

MORE THAN half a century has elapsed between the snapping of the two photographs here. Just another example of how time does fly! Maybe a few styles have changed—but not the quality of Juniata's coeds.

Some of the coeds in the above photograph—whose names we do not happen to know—will be back for Alumni Day. So maybe the coeds at left will have a chance to compare notes on Oneida Hall.

That's just one of the many enjoyments that come with a re-visit to the campus for Alumni Day. And this year, at least six classes will have the first chance to meet in "combine reunions." Under the new Dartmouth Plan for reunions (see page 12), there will be greater opportunity to recall the "good old days" with former students of the same college generation.

It's Commencement weekend, too. Activities will be planned for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, May 31, June 1, 2.
